MORE INFORMATION

It is possible to bring up more display options for the NC Programs window by right-clicking on the double bars above the window. See diagram below.

Allow Docking is selected by default, and keeps the NC Programs window docked. The window can be docked on either the left side of the screen or the right side.

Hide performs the same action as closing the NC Programs window.

Float In Main Window will allow you to tab back and forth between the NC Programs window and the 3D View window. In this mode, each window will take up the entire screen in, but only one window can be shown at a time.

To get back out of the Float In Main Window mode, right-click above the NC Programs window and uncheck Float In Main Window. See the diagram below.
